Volunteers are the Lifeblood of our Organization
by Sandy Illian Bosch

Aging Care Connections could use more people like Rosemary Suchor. A former employee of the agency, Rosemary returned last year – this time, as a volunteer. “I like to work,” Suchor said of the simple reason she spends two mornings a week at the Aging Care Connections facility. Rosemary also enjoys knowing that she is helping the organization to keep costs in check. Support, volunteers are vital to Aging Care Connections. “In 2013, volunteers devoted 4,618 hours to Aging Care Connections. Given that the value of a volunteer hour in Illinois is $22.17, this translates to $102,381.06,” said Niki Chibucos, Director of Development and Public Relations. Niki said the agency’s employees just can’t do all that needs to be done. For example, volunteers allow Aging Care Connections to put out mailings that inform people of their services and solicit financial help. “That’s critical,” Niki said.

Niki said volunteers are needed to perform office tasks such as filing, copying and data entry. Also needed are people to work the front desk. Front desk receptionists are asked to work one four-hour shift each week, while those performing office tasks will work between 2 and 4 hours each week. Yet another group of volunteers is busy working on putting the details together for another successful event.

As a senior citizen herself, Rosemary isn’t alone among the volunteers at Aging Care Connections and other area organizations. In its Feb. 24 newsletter, the NonProfitTimes reported that in 2012, Americans 65 and older donated nearly twice as many hours per person than the population as a whole. At nearly 86, Rosemary said it is important to keep the mind and body active. By helping out at Aging Care Connections, she not only of year, Rosemary helps by greeting those who come to have their taxes done by AARP said, because she’s willing and able to help out wherever she is needed. Rosemary, who lives just a short walk from Aging Care Connections, said the organization is a good neighbor to so many seniors, pairing them with the services and benefits they need. “Our organization helps people to cope,” she said. “Aging Care Connections cares about seniors, and so do I.”

To offer your time to Aging Care Connections, please contact Niki at 708-354-1323, extension 226. Volunteers must be 18 and older and available to work on weekdays at the La Grange facility.

April is National Volunteers Month. Aging Care Connections salutes its dedicated, talented volunteers and acknowledges their generous service. Thank you very much!
Could your organization, business, practice, restaurant, school, or place of worship benefit from learning about maintaining good mental health and wellness?

Would information about how to recognize signs and symptoms of mental illness help your employees, management team, and staff?

Would an up-to-date resource guide listing 24-hour hotlines and local mental health counseling and treatment be an asset for you and your team?

If you answered yes to any of the above questions, we can help.

Twenty-nine community members from across the western suburbs are now certified instructors in Mental Health First Aid. MHFA has gained popularity in the United States over the last decade as professionals have recognized the need to identify and address symptoms of mental illness as they occur in everyday situations.

“Much like training instructors in CPR or first aid, the program certifies participants to train the public to identify, understand and respond to symptoms of mental illness,” said Greg DiDomenico, President/CEO of Community Memorial Foundation, one of the partners bringing the training to the local community.

Joint funders of the effort with Community Memorial Foundation are The Rotary Club of La Grange, Lyons Township Mental Health Commission, and Proviso Township Mental Health Commission. Over the next year, the certified instructors will provide at least 45 trainings for local human services providers, first responders, health providers, faith-based organizations, educators and workplaces. As a result, more than 1,000 individuals will be trained over 12 months.

Mental Health First Aid is a program of the National Council on Behavioral Health and addresses the growing need for mental health services in our region by strengthening the mental health and well-being of our communities, decreasing the stigma associated with mental illness, and providing awareness of local mental health resources.

According to the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI), one in four adults in the U.S. experience a mental health disorder in a given year. One in 17 people live with a serious mental illness such as major depression or bipolar disorder. Anxiety disorders affect about 18.7 percent of adults. Suicide is the third leading cause of death for people ages 10 to 24. Fewer than one-third of adults and one-half of children with a diagnosable mental disorder receive mental health services in a given year.

If you are interested in having a certified Mental Health First Aid instructor provide an eight-hour training (one full-day or two half-days) to a local group, contact Gale Christoff at gchristoff@cmfdn.org or 630-654-4729. There is no cost for training or the materials. Spanish-speaking instructors and materials are also available.

43rd Annual Luncheon

The Aging Well Community Action Team of La Grange and La Grange Park holds its monthly Walk for Health from 10:30 a.m. until noon on the third Wednesday of each month at the Park District of La Grange’s Recreation Center located at 536 East Avenue in La Grange. Walk for Health is held on the indoor track at the Recreation Center. The program encourages people, especially those aged 50 or older, to walk to maintain a healthy lifestyle. There are no distance requirements; people are encouraged to do what they can and to enjoy the companionship of the other walkers. No registration is required and participation is free. Refreshments are served.

Aging Well, a program of Aging Care Connections, is dedicated to working with communities to create an environment in which people can age well. Serving 20 communities in the Lyons, Riverside and South Proviso Townships, the program is composed of hundreds of older adults and more than 130 community-based organizations working together to address aging issues in their local communities. For more information about Aging Well, please contact Linda Hussey at 708-354-1323, ext. 242, or by email at lhussey@agingcareconnections.org.

OUR THANKS TO ST. BARBARA PARISH

In reflecting on our wonderful partners in delivering the very best services to seniors in the community, we often think of St. Barbara Parish. Their kind welcome in hosting a variety of our programs has been so appreciated.

We hear from our older adults that St. Barbara's offers a warm, hospitable setting for meetings, classes and support groups. We are very grateful for their “open arms” welcome to our seniors. We could not ask for a more wonderful partner in our mission to ensure the well-being and independence of older adults in our community.

We would like to thank Angela Lawler and Reverend Casey for facilitating our programming at St. Barbara’s. It is a pleasure to work with you!

CLERGY BREAKFAST

On February 28, Aging Care Connections hosted an informational coffee for clergy leaders in our service area. The purpose of this meeting was to inform church leaders about the often critically-needed services our organization offers to seniors and their families. Partnership among community organizations is the best way to ensure that residents learn and take advantage of the helpful programs available to provide a safety net in times of crisis.

Board member Anne Shannon greets Danny Enright, LaGrange Bible Church, and Lee Benisek, First Presbyterian Church of LaGrange.

Director of Philanthropy and External Affairs and Board member Saranne Milano welcome Rev. Robert G. Casey of St. Barbara Parish, Brookfield, to the Clergy Breakfast.

Pastor Said Ailabouni of Grace Lutheran Church, La Grange, and Rev. Dr. Rich Kirchherr, First Congregational Church of Western Springs, chat with Board member Catherine McCrory at the Breakfast.
